SOLICITOR

Mr. Miller asked about the referendum on last night's ballot. Solicitor Evashavik said he thinks it needs to be on the ballot twice. His understanding is that it would give municipalities the ability to exempt residences from property taxes but would take years to become law.

FINANCE AND ADMINISTRATION

Mr. Miller read Dr. Pustorino's report in her absence.

The newsletter was sent to residents in mid-October.

The borough's new website will go live on January 1, 2018, at which time the old website will simultaneously be taken down.

There were no applications for dumpsters.

Donations were collected for the Michael Connors Memorial; donations will be used for the memorial stone and maintenance.

WHEMS

WHEMS responded to four calls in October which brings the total calls in 2017 to 78; there were 62 calls at the same time in 2016.

A letter was sent to municipalities about WHEMS that included some misrepresentations; WHEMS was trying to determine if their lease was valid and at no time requested anything from the borough other than the current per capita. Mr. Hoover stated that the council stood behind WHEMS.

CRIME WATCH (Mrs. Donahue)

The Crime Watch meeting was held on October 26, 2017. Safety issues were discussed and turnout was categorized as fair. Crime Watch also participated in Election Day and had decals for purchase available in the amount of $2.00 for a strip of three decals.

CITIZEN PARTICIPATION

Carol Donahue, Greenfield Avenue, said she heard of incidents of doors on the 200 block of Elizabeth being knocked on in the early morning. Mayor Perry said he hasn't heard about this and he lives on this block, but he will investigate with police to see if any complaints have been received. He noted they did have a similar incident on a different street.

Gus Sholder, Greenfield Avenue, was concerned about a "no parking in alley" sign and explained that his wife is handicapped. Mr. Syska said it was his understanding that the sign had been put up because cars were blocking the alley. Mr Sholder said this was not correct. Mr. Hoover said council will have a handicapped parking spot designated in the alley.

Doris Libell, Lynnwood Avenue, said ladies on the elections board would like to thank Mayor Perry and Mr. Drenning for their assistance on Election Day. Mr. Hoover thanked Mrs. Libell and the ladies for their public service.
